The Church on the Hill offers opportunities throughout the year for companies to sponsor our events and receive recognition.

Sometimes companies/organizations are very generous with their support throughout the year and discover at the end of the year that their total participation could have afforded them much more recognition had they identified the events in their marketing strategy during their annual budget preparation.

Therefore, the Church on the Hill Sponsorship Program affords a company/organizations the opportunity to (1) participate at the same levels and in the same programs in which they may already be participating, (2) continue to receive the recognition that they are entitled to, (3) have the opportunity to speak about their companies/organizations at our annual events (and monthly meetings).

Congressman Anthony Brown (D-MD) & Rev. Fayrene T. Koroma

Our new Church on the Hill-National Network (NNCMW) Sponsors is Congressman Anthony Brown (MD-04). We will be conducting another “Community Forum” on Capitol Hill in the Fall 2019.

The Business Sponsorship Program also offers “Pay Pal” invoicing in order to assist companies in their annual budgeting. Once the company/organization decides on a Sponsorship level, an Invoice may be sent (quarterly or as the company/organization designates) to remind the entity to donate regularly to our cause.

Companies/organizations may choose to either submit their contributions for the Sponsorship Program by check or on-line.

Take a look at the three levels of The Church on the Hill Business Sponsorship Program. We are certain that you can easily identify the level that is most beneficial for your company/organization.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

On October 10, '2005 Yvette Cade was doused with gasoline and set on fire. According to the Wed., April 29 &30 '06 Examiner, "A Prince Georges County man was convicted Friday of trying to kill his estranged wife, who was set on fire last year at the cell phone store where she worked. The case was "rooted in rage, propelled by malice and executed without mercy," Prince Georges County State's Attorney Glenn Ivey said.

The question is why did Roger Hargrave do it? Were there other alternatives available to him that could assist him to cope with his anger against his estranged wife?

On Thursday, October 20 '05, the Church on the Hill responded by hosting its 2nd Women's Rights event on Capitol Hill at the Rayburn House Office Bldg. Former Congressman Albert R. Wynn, D-MD, was our Congressional Sponsor.

Former Deputy State's Attorney Pat Smoot (from the Office of former State's Attorney Glenn Ivey) spoke out against Domestic Violence at the Rally. She headed the domestic violence unit at the Office of the State's Attorney. During her tenure, some of the tactics that the unit emphasized to assist women who became victims of domestic violence were:

- Provide a Safety Plan for couples who experience ongoing arguments and fighting at home
- Prevent the cycle of violence in the home through family counseling

As the judicial systems copes with Domestic Violence, Deputy Smoot insisted that officers, lawyers, and judges be better trained not to demean victims of domestic violence. Also, often, church leaders demean the vulnerable victims and do not believe the “wife” when she tells them that she is being abused. When violence enters the marriage, the bond is broken. Therefore, every effort should be made to assist families to grapple with domestic violence.

The tragedy is that children are seeing the violent acts, and therefore the “cycle of abuse continues.” Often these children become “batterers in their adult life.”

Ms. Julia Maynor was the proud Sponsor of our Saturday, October 19 from 2:00p.m. to 6:00p.m., Annual “Women’s Empowerment Rally.” We conducted the event at the Bladensburg Town Hall, Bladensburg, MD.

October is “Domestic Violence Awareness Month.” Our next “Women’s Empowerment Rally” is Saturday, October 16, 2021. Exact date/location to be announced.

Angela Alsobrooks to Become First woman to Lead Prince George's County

November 6, 2018

Prince George's County State's Attorney Angela D. Alsobrooks on Tuesday became the first woman chosen by voters to lead Maryland's second-largest county, in an election that also saw the expansion of the County Council to include two at-large members.

Two incumbent members of the board of education were ousted by challengers, according to preliminary returns, after an intense campaign that reflected a rift on the board between establishment-backed members and a vocal dissident bloc. But all of the incumbent county council members running for reelection retained their seats.

Democrat Aisha N. Braveboy, who was unopposed, was elected to succeed Alsobrooks as state's attorney. Braveboy, who has never been a prosecutor, says she wants to create more diversion programs for low-level offenders and continue the office's focus on prosecuting and preventing domestic violence.

[\[Read the latest Maryland election results here\]](#)

Alsobrooks easily won a heated Democratic primary in June and faced no opposition in the final months of the general election, after Republican Jerry Mathis dropped out of the race.

She will succeed Rushern L. Baker III (D), who has focused during his two terms on bringing new businesses to the county, decreasing crime and cleaning up local government after the arrest of his predecessor, Jack B. Johnson \(D\), on corruption charges in 2010.

Delores Penn, a retired schoolteacher who recently moved from Los Angeles to Maryland, said it will be "wonderful" to have Alsobrooks — who, like her, is a single mother — as the first female county executive.

"I don't see single parents really represented," Penn said. "There's no breaks for single parents. You're at the bottom of the totem pole."

On the campaign trail, Alsobrooks talked about improving the struggling public school system, which emerged as a weakness for Baker in his unsuccessful run for governor, and growing local businesses to expand the commercial tax base.

She is preparing for her new role even as her office works with police and the FBI on a broadening investigation into the causes of the severe electrical shock received by a child swinging on a lighted handrail at MGM National Harbor this summer. She has said investigators "will find the truth" — and she is not afraid of the possibility the truth might include allegations of public corruption.

Kimberly Brooks, 53, said she was excited to back Alsobrooks because of the Democrat's personal and professional history in Prince George's County. "I've been watching her work over the years," Brooks said. "She seems very excited to do good work for the county."
